DENMARK, December 27.

WITHIN these few years a set of people have been discovered here, seized with a disorder of mind that is extremely dangerous to society. This is an imagination, that by committing premeditated murder, and being afterwards condemned to die for it, they are the better able, by public marks of repentance and conversion as they go to the scaffold, to prepare themselves for death, and work out their own salvation. A little while ago one of these wretches murdered a child out of the same principles. In order, however, to take from these wretches all hopes of obtaining their end, and to extirpate the evil, the King issued, on the 13th of this month, an ordonance, by which his Majesty forbids the punishing them with death, and enacts, that they shall be branded in the forehead with an hot iron, and whipped; that they shall afterwards be confined, for the rest of their days, in a House of Correction, in order to be kept there to hard labour; and lastly, that every year, on the day of their crimes, they shall be whipped anew in public.

Edinburgh, Feb. 3. Among the follies of the age, the method of determining disputes of all kinds by a bet seems the most prevalent and general. Among many instances of this kind, the following we are just informed of:—Some months ago two gentlemen, their place of residence at no great distance from this city, met to spend a chearful evening in a neighbouring tavern. The one was about fifty years of age, married, and his wife about the same age; the other was about thirty, and about four years before had married an agreeable young lady of about twenty, but had not been blessed with any progeny. The conversation fell upon having children, in which the old gentleman took an opportunity to be a little severe upon his companion; which so much nettled him, that he offered a bet of ten to one on the first child. The bet was apparently ridiculous, as the old gentleman's wife was above fifty; but the great odds, and the humour of the bet, determined him to accept. Accordingly write were drawn, signed, sealed, and delivered, security granted, and witnesses called to the bargain. The bet was considerable.—We now learn, the pregnancy of the old lady is within these few weeks declared, and duly notified to the better, whose only defence is a thorough disbelief, and who refuses all other evidence, and is determined to refuse, except that of being eye-witness of the delivery. How this point is to be determined we know not; but we are informed a suit is certainly intended on the agreement the moment the lady is delivered.

LONDON.

January 19. Dr. King, late Archbishop of Dublin, having invited several persons of distinction to dine with him, had, amongst a great variety of dishes, a leg of mutton and caper sauce; but the Doctor, who was not fond of butter, and remarkable for preferring a trencher to a plate, had some of the above mentioned pickles reserved dry for his use; which, as he was mincing, he called aloud to the company to observe him. "I here present you, my lords and gentlemen (said he) with a sight that may henceforward serve you to talk of as something curious, viz. That you saw an Archbishop of Dublin, at fourscore and seven years of age, cut capers upon a trencher."

March 26. By the Canada, Capt. Macleod, arrived a few days since at Cowes from Carolina, we learn, that Captain P——n, of the Aurora, (lately condemned there as unfit for the sea) died on his passage to England, on board the Canada. The Aurora, as we are informed, was the vessel on board which, about two years ago, a young lady, sister to an eminent merchant at Madera, embarked in London for that island; but through an unwarrantable and violent attempt of that Captain during the passage, on the maid, and resented by the mistress, and (as supposed) from revenge, or fear of complaint, or of consequences, instead of landing them, and a considerable freight consigned to the above merchant at Madera, under false and frivolous pretences, when in sight of the island, notwithstanding the tears and intreaties of the lady, and the representations of other passengers, and of his own mate, he sailed away with them to Barbadoes; where they no sooner arrived than the lady underwent very considerable further distress from the great fire at that place, and afterwards returned to England, from whence she sailed again to Madera, suffering all the time in this tour of many thousand leagues at sea (besides an absence of 12 months, and the most cruel and grievous disappointment) the most eminent dangers, and very great damages. In the mean while Capt. P——n sailed away with the above goods, to Carolina, and Jamaica, (whereto he was not bound) and there converted to his own use the said goods, to the great damage, vexation, and disappointment of the proprietors, and all persons concerned, and to his own sad and melancholly end; for from this very strange, and perhaps unparalelled, conduct, and after the loss of his said ship, returning unexpectedly home, on board the Canada, much disordered, he was seized with a fever, and died, as above, raving mad, leaving a most amiable and deserving woman, his wife, and several children, in a deplorable condition, to lament the fatal effects of such sad misconduct.—This unhappy and fatal story, but for the warning it may afford to the living, might have been buried with the deceased; but masters of vessels may thence learn caution against illegal, violent, and immoral attempts on female passengers (the probable first cause of this tragical story and far-spread distress) and ladies of character obliged to make distant sea voyages, to take, before departure, proper security for their protection and safe landing; but principally, merchants and others, to survey well characters, as well as bottoms, since if no redress is had herein, such omission may prove of great detriment not only to private property, but to trade and navigation in general.

From a late CRAFTSMAN.

To the PRINTER.

THE News which you have lately made public, that three Commissioners are appointed to keep the Privy Seal, for the space of six weeks, and no longer, after which time it is to return to L———— C———m, seems to be a transaction of the most extraordinary nature that was ever transacted. What reasons have, or can be assigned for this strange event? Is it because L—d C———m is ill of the gout? Yet the last accounts said he was in perfect health; and if not, how can it be known that the gout will last exactly six weeks, and no longer? Besides, last year, the fit lasted almost six months, and yet it was never then thought necessary that he should be placed under the care of three state doctors. I fear the real truth is, that it is foreseen E—l C——m is likely very soon to be laid up in flannel, that is, that some business is about to come on, to which the seal must be put; a job, which the inflexibility of that great man's patriotism refuses to execute with his own hands, and therefore he civilly delegates his office to others. This puts me in mind of a practice in the French army; when a breach is to be stormed, the chief commander of the attack marches at the head of his corps, until he arrives at the foot of the breach, and then turning to his followers, civilly takes off his hat, and says, Messieurs! montez. What the nature of this job is, we shall soon know; but at whose instance it is solicited, and by whose direction it is guided is apparent already, from the rank and country of those enfans perdus, who are nominated to be substitute Commissioners. Two of them, by their names, speak broad Scotch, and the rank of them all determines them to be retainers to the Thane, rather than Privy Counsellors to a great kingdom; at best, soldiers of Fortune, whose maxim is that of the Roman, aes Cæsar est nullus. As the business of their office is expressly directed to be performed by any two, we hence see the inutility of their being all of the Thane's own regiment; the lump is filled up with an English cypher. It is kind, however, to publish to all the world, that some business must shortly be done, which his L—p will have no hand in. But as the Crier has thus proclaimed Oyez! Oyez! have a care! we shall better be enabled to judge, whether there really be such a spirit of prostitution in this kingdom, as that common jade Fame reports; or whether others will prudently, at least for their own sakes, if not from virtuous motives, imitate the noble example of inflexibility set before them. If not, then the freeholders of the several counties and boroughs throughout Britain, will at least be able hereby to discern the spirits whether they be the sons of Liberty or of Mammon.

NEUTER.

ROSEAU, (in Dominica) February 20.

A GENTLEMAN who arrived yesterday from Martinico, informs us, that the French make not the least scruple now of admitting English vessels to enter into the ports of that island, notwithstanding the late edict to the contrary.

St. JOHN, (in Antigua) APRIL 2.

Last Thursday arrived here from a cruize, Vice Admiral Pye, with his Majesty's ships the Chatham, Lark, Vulture, and Lynx.

April 13. Last Sunday about noon the ship Loyal-Briton, dropt anchor in our road, in whom came his Excellency William Woodley, Esq; captain-general and commander in chief of the Leeward Islands; and on Tuesday about noon his Excellency made his public landing. As his Excellency stept into the barge he was saluted by the guns of Fort James, and on his landing by a battery of field pieces, placed on this occasion on Lefsly's wharf. His Excellency was waited on by a committee of the hon. the Council and Assembly; and the street from the wharf to the court-house was lined by General Lambton's regiment, [68th] the troop of Carabineers, and the Blue regiment. After his Excellency's commission was read in the court-house, and the usual oaths administered, an elegant dinner was provided. The healths of our most gracious Sovereign, the Royal family, &c. were drank, and the whole was concluded with the greatest order and harmony.

Last Sunday arrived here his Majesty's ship Druid, Captain Jackson; and on Monday arrived the Phœnix man of war, Capt Hollwell, from the coast of Africa.

By Capt. Cornish who arrived at Dominica the 4th inst. in 32 days from London, we hear that the memorial in favour of a separate government for that island had met with the approbation of the Lords of trade, but before their report was laid before the council, another memorial appeared at the board of trade with the reasons against that measure, and the arguments were enforced with such weight that Lord Hillsborough declared there would be no separate government there for some time.

We hear a young English gentleman is appointed Lieutenant Governor of that island, but his name is not made public.

Extract of a letter from Dominica, April 10.

——— "A melancholly accident happened here last night. Our president Mr. Pringle, with some more gentlemen of the island, went on board the Phœnix man of war to take their leave of Capt. Hollwell, and in returning from the ship to the shore, the boat they were in filled with water, and it became necessary for every man to shift for himself. The president and Mr. Robertson our secretary could not swim, and therefore were drowned: the rest of the gentlemen were picked up by a little boat that happened accidentally to hear their cries; it was a mercy they did not all lose their lives. Some of those who could not swim, kept fast to the boat that was sunk, and by that means kept themselves above water, and were saved; had the president done the same he might in all probability have been saved, but finding the boat, as he thought, going to the bottom, he was so frightened that he sprung out of her. His death is an irreparable loss to this island."

We are further informed relative to this most melancholly accident that the collector and Mr. Stuart were in the boat when she sunk, that the collector was saved by catching an oar, by which, with great fatigue, he reached the shore; that Mr. Stuart by swimming saved his life; that poor Mr. Pringle held by Mr. Stuart's foot for some time, but Mr. Stuart was obliged to quit Mr. Pringle, being too weak to support him longer. The boat they were in was the King's, just come out new from England, and that they mentioned her being leaky to Captain Hollwell, who offered them his barge, which they refused, not imagining the fatal consequence that quickly befell them.

April 20. Last Wednesday arrived here the hon. Anthony Wyke, Esq; James Chambers, and Abraham Harris, Esquires, being a committee of the Honourable the Council and Assembly of Montserrat, with an address to his Excellency General Woodley on his safe arrival in his government. And,

On Monday the Honourable Drewry Ottley, Esq; Joseph King, Joseph Popham, William Fenlevau, John Corlet, and Henry Benner, Esquires, being a committee of the Honourable the Council and Assembly of St. Christopher's addressed his Excellency on the same occasion. His Excellency was pleased to accept of both congratulations as early marks of their respect with the greatest politeness and affability.

And this afternoon the Honourable John Vandeport, Esq; the Honourable John Ward, Esq; William Maynard, and William-Burt Weeks, Esquires, being a committee of the Honourable the Council and Assembly of Nevis, will wait on his Excellency with the congratulatory compliments of that island.

We hear that next week his Excellency intends to visit the other islands of this government, and that it will not be long before we shall have the pleasure of his return to reside among us.

Boston, May 2. The late speaker of the House of Representatives, has received a very genteel letter from the speaker of the House of Burgesses in Virginia, in answer to the circular letter of the house written in the last session of our general assembly, which got to Williamsburg in good time, as their assembly was to sit in a few days. Their principles of liberty it is said, are so well established, and the tendency of the late acts of parliament imposing duties and taxes on the colonies are so manifest, as to leave no doubt but they will approve of the measures taken, and readily concur in the plan proposed for the support of their constitutional rights. Their noble, timely and spirited resolutions in the year 1765, so satisfactory to the people of America, afford abundant reason for us ever to respect that province, and to speak of them in the same terms in, which the honourable gentlemen is pleased politely to mention this; "as very vigilant and steadfast guardians of American Rights."

Boston, May 9. The town passed a vote nemine contradicente, directing the select men to refuse the use of Faneuil's-Hall to his excellency the governor and council, on the ensuing election day; unless they shall be assured that the commissioners of the customs will not be invited to dine there on that day.

NEW-YORK, MAY 9.

Extract of a letter from Montreal, dated April 16.

Last Monday night, about 11 o'clock, a fire broke out in one of the upper streets, about the middle of this town, occasioned by a lighted candle being carried into the stable of Mons. Glasson: The flames took their course from near St. Laurence's gate, and went through the Provost's, Mr. Grant's, Jacobs, and the Black Sisters Nunnery, raging with such violence, that in about two hours, upwards of 80 houses were consumed, and 107 families dislodged; and 'tis thought, had it not been for the Chateau, which was slated, and by that means stopped the fury of the flames, the whole town would have been consumed. The loss is not yet known, but I imagine it will amount to near 25,000l. sterling.

On Monday last the General Assembly of this province met here; and yesterday adjourned to the 12th of September next.

Doctor Benjamin Franklin is chosen one of the council of the Royal Society for the present year.

Newport (Rhode Island) May 9. At the general election held in this town, on Wednesday last, the hon. Josias Lyndon, Esq; was chosen governor, and the hon. Nicholas Cooke, Esq; deputy governor of this colony.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Virginia, dated April 3.

"We are anxiously expecting here, that some resolves of frugality and industry will be entered into by the merchants of Philadelphia. The influence of so large a place will be extensive, and the lesser towns will be ambitious to follow the example. We look upon seeling arguments as sometimes very powerful. Such prudent resolves will make them feel at home, and exert themselves in our favour. We admire the Farmer, and flatter ourselves, your city and province will act worthy so great an honour, by your spirited conduct."

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.

Extract of a letter from Detroit, dated February 23.

"The governor of Machilimackinack, major Rogers, is in close confinement there, for treasonable machinations; he is to be sent prisoner down the country as soon as the season permits. We do not know, for certain, what he has been guilty of."

May 9. By letters from Fort Pitt, of the 10th ult. we learn, that the several tribes of Indians, who were to attend the conference at that post, were to be in by the 1st; and that, from the indefatigable pains which colonel Croghan was taking, there was reason to hope he would be able to settle the differences subsisting between them and us, to mutual satisfaction; though the barbarous and cruel murders which have, within these few years, been committed on the friends and relatives of those Indians, render the work very difficult to perfect.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.

Extract of a Letter from Fort Pitt, May 4, 1768.

"The conference is almost over, and every thing better settled than I could have expected; and I think, when the boundary line is adjusted, and the Indians paid for the lands, every nation this way will be perfectly satisfied."

In another letter from Fort Pitt, dated April 26, it is said, "Colonel Reid, with seven other Officers, and a party of 98 men, of the 34th regiment, arrived here on the 24th, from the Illinois, without meeting any interruption on the way.

On the eighth instant died in Frederick county, Virginia, Captain ALEXANDER STEPHEN, late an officer of his majesty's royal American regiment. He was a gentleman of integrity and bravery. In general Braddock's engagement he rescued the colours of the 44th regiment from the enemy, after the fall of Mr. Halket, and received two wounds in the action. He distinguished himself at the reduction of Louisburg, and Quebec; and under the command of general Murray, on the Heights of Abraham, the famous 28th of April, in which engagement he received a dangerous wound, of which he never perfectly recovered.

CHARLES-TOWN, June 6.

HIS Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, has been pleased to appoint Andrew Aggerw, Esq; of Beaufort, Port-Royal, to be Notary-Public there, where such an officer was much wanted.

His Honour has also been pleased to appoint two new Commissioners of Fortifications, so that the board now consists of the following gentlemen, viz. John Hume, John Murray, Hopkin Price and George Roupell Esquires, and Messrs. Edward Blake, John Edwards, and Josiah Smith jun. Their clerk is Mr. Elias Poinsett.

Letters from Barbados, say, that John Gray, Esq; is appointed Collector of his Majesty's Customs for this port, in the room of Daniel Moore, Esquire.

Tuesday last Ralph Izard, Esq; Mrs. Izard and Miss De Lancey, embarked in the Brigt. Philadelphia-Packet, Captain Clifford, who is to land them at New-York, in his way to London.

A calculation having been made of the value of the produce of this province, exported since the 1st of November last, and of what remains to be shipped by this same day in the present year, at the price the planter and manufacturer has received for it at the Charles-Town market, it is reckoned to exceed Half a Million Sterling; exclusive of some thousand barrels of Rice bought by our neighbours of Georgia, from those parts of this that border on that colony, and shipped from thence as their produce. There needs no other proof of the flourishing state of South-Carolina; nor of its importance to Great-Britain, than the number of shipping and seamen constantly employed in transporting its bulky commodities.

Wednesday last sailed for Halifax, His Majesty's Cutter Chaleurs, commanded by Capt. Thomas Laugherne.

The same day Mr. David Stoddard, merchant, embarked in the Sloop Jeffs, Capt. Hunt, on his return to Boston.

Last Friday Capt. Jenkin, of his Majesty's 9th regiment, with some other passengers, embarked in Capt. Bishop's Schooner, for St. Augustine.

A number of Catawba Indians arrived in Town last Monday, with the Scalps of the party of Shawanese, they surprized on the 1st ult. His Honour the Lieutenant Governor received them in most friendly manner, ordered them some presents, and they are now on their return home.

Saturday last being our most gracious and beloved Sovereign's Birth-Day, the same was celebrated here, with every demonstration of joy, affection and gratitude, that the most loyal subjects could give. The morning was ushered in with ringing of bells: At sun-rise, the forts and shipping displayed all their colours: Before noon, the detachment of his Majesty's troops posted here, under the command of Capt. Lewis Valentine Fuser; the Artillery company (in a new and very genteel uniform) commanded by Capt. Owen Roberts; the Light-Infantry company, in their uniform; and the other companies of the Charles-Town regiment of Militia, commanded by the honourable Colonel Beale, were drawn up in different places, and marched to the Parade, where they made a handsome appearance, and were reviewed by his honour the Lieutenant-Governor, attended by his Council, the public Officers, &c. At noon, the cannon, &c. were fired as usual, and his Honour gave a most elegant entertainment at Mr. Dillon's, to a very numerous company, consisting of the Members of his Majesty's Council, and of the Assembly, the public Officers, civil and military, the Clergy, &c. &c. &c. The afternoon was spent in drinking the usual, with many other loyal and patriotic toasts; and the evening concluded with illuminations, &c.

This day Mr. Theodore Gaillard merchant, embarked for London, in the America, Capt. Coombes; Mr. Joseph Shoemaker, and several other passengers, for Philadelphia, in the Prince of Wales, Capt. Mason; Hugh Finlay, Esq; and Lieut. Pittman, for Boston, in the Mary, Capt. Phillips.

Charles Pryce, Esq; attorney-general of Georgia, is gone for England, in the Snow Britannia, Capt. Dean, which sailed from Savannah the 21st past.

The Brigt. Hope, Capt. Wadland, from Georgia for Gosport, having sprung a leak, put back to Tybee the 19th ult.

The Ship Constantine, Capt. Thomas Gullan, is arrived at Savannah, from Angola.

☞ No alteration in the Price Current.
